by the Seaside
Volunteers in Action

We have an important "Mission Impossible" to serve the needs of the Seaside community. We act as a center in which hints, desires and pleas for a helping hand can be met. Our volunteers find their lives enriched through offering their time and talents to others. Both those reaching out for the helping hand and those extending the helping hand need each other.

This is the first of our bi-monthly columns that will promote your interest and hopefully your cooperation in the Seaside Volunteers in Action. Our office is new. The Seaside Voluntary Action Center is only one of the 280 non-profit volunteer centers located all around the country. We are funded both federally and locally.

We are a referral center for people who want to give and for people who want to receive. Our office at 1475 LaSalle is a meeting place for "the haves" and "the have-nots."

We need:

Drivers- for example, to cheerfully chauffeur an elderly man to weekly doctor appointments.

Men- to provide guidance and friendship to boys without fathers.

Lawn waterers- for unable owners of dry lawns.

Furniture- that can be given away.

Shopping companions- for shut-ins.

Do you need?

Couple to entertain- with folk guitar music.

Enthusiastic man to present program- of beautiful antique cylinder records.

Please call us at 899-5411 if you request volunteer services or can offer some.

Concours Committee Thanked

James C. Glaser, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula United Fund committee, sponsoring the 1974 Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, expressed his gratitude to the many volunteers who have worked during the past three months in preparation for Sunday, August 11, the date of this annual classic car exhibit.

In particular, Glaser singled out the members of the United Fund concours committee: Ralph Saylor for decorations; Hank Lane, ticket chairman; Coldy Whitman for the poster and ticket design; Skip Murry, poster distribution; Gen. Roy Lasseter for preparation of Club d'Elegance; Mr. Toni Lane, lunch co-ordinator; Treasurer Dick Murnighan; and Doug Forzani, shuttle service chairman.

This 24th annual Concours, known as the most prestigious event of its kind in the United States, will play host to 125 authentically restored pre-World War II automobiles, competing for trophies and the acknowledgement of spectators.

The Monterey Peninsula United Fund will benefit from all proceeds of the event, an amount which will be included in its 1974 fund drive contributions.

Glaser also stated that Club d'Elegance sponsor passes are still available. This $50 pass entitles the sponsor to a reserved seat at Club XIX, a concours pass, and a gourmet luncheon. All inquiries and reservations for the Club d'Elegance should be directed to Glaser at 373-1361.

Spectator tickets are now on sale at all offices of Monterey Savings & Loan, at $3.00 per person.

Classic car enthusiasts should also plan to attend the 1st Annual Monterey Historic Car Races on Saturday, August 10. This meeting will feature pre and post-war autos that raced on circuits throughout the United States and Europe prior to 1967. Laguna Seca Raceway will be the site of this most-memorable step back into the history of sports and grand prix car racing.

Del Rey Theater Reopens August 1

The Del Rey Theater located in Seaside will open its doors on August 1 as a multipurpose theater where plays, movies, concerts sports events, etc. will be presented by and for the citizens of Seaside.

A group of Seaside citizens have formed a non-profit organization called the Seaside Performing Arts Association, a service group organized to encourage and promote cultural events for the benefit of the Seaside Community. A revival by the Church of God in Christ will be held August 2-11 in the theater. The executive board of the Seaside Performing Arts Association includes J.W. Golden, Joseph B. McLeod, Phyllis C. Smith, Mattye Blakeney and Bedford B. Vaughn.

The association will charge

Restaurant Workers To Get Option On Meals

California restaurant employees working at or just above the State minimum wage of $2.00 an hour would have the choice for the first time of whether or not to take their meals in the establishment where they work, under a new State policy announced today.

Evelyn Whitlow, Chief of Industrial Welfare in the State Department of Industrial Relations, said the new policy grants these restaurant workers the option on how a portion of their wage is to be spent. Present policy, if effect since 1968, allows employers to provide up to three meals in a single shift and deduct cost of the food from the minimum wage.

Affected by the new policy would be those at lower wage scales among 380,000 workers in 25,000 restaurants statewide. Average weekly wage for the industry is estimated at $76.70 for a 28.2 average work week.

Miss Whitlow said that beginning September 1, if minimum wage employees choose to eat during the shift, then they must authorize payment from their wages for meals eaten. The rule is consistent with provisions of the State's new minimum wage law effective March 4, 1974.

Meals for restaurant workers account for an increasingly large part of net income, Miss Whitlow said, and they may not be able to afford that kind of luxury, because wages generally in this industry place them at one of the lowest rungs in the wage scale.

"These people — many young students, young mothers with children at home, and many who are working for the first time — are netitled to choose how their limited earnings are spent," Miss Whitlow said. Value of meals now used as part of the minimum wage during a typical work week can cost as follows:

One meal per day, 6 days — from $5.40 to $9.90;
Two meals per day, 6 days, — from $12.90 to $17.40.

When the cash value of these meals is credited against the minimum wage, net pay earned by the employee generally falls considerably below the minimum wage of $2.00 an hour now in effect in California.

Also forbidden under the new meal policy would be the common practice requiring restaurant workers to come in early or to stay late to take their meals. Miss Whitlow said that State regulations can apply only during a regular work shift, not before or after, under Section 1182 of the State labor code.

Miss Whitlow said the new meal policy is consistent with prohibitions in State labor code Section 450 against employers compelling or coercing employees to patronize the employer in the purchase of anything of value.

Deductions for meals, under the State minimum wage law, are limited to breakfast, 90 cents; lunch, $1.25; and dinner, $1.65.

Under the new policy beginning September 1, the above values for meals used as a part of the minimum wage would be allowed only if: The employee in writing consents to have a specific meal deducted from the minimum wage.

LAWSON "SPEAK WITH FORKED TONGUE"

At last Thursdays council meeting, after voting for Adeline Di Lorenzo's application for re-zoning, Councilman Oscar Lawson qualified his favorable vote by stating that he was extremely concerned with the property tax, and he wanted to see "that property back on the tax rolls."

Apparently Lawson hasn't done his homework again. That property has always been on the tax rolls. But he shows some inconsistency in his property tax concern. In fact, he speaks with forked tongue. Out of one side of his mouth he states that he wants to see property on the tax rolls, and out of the other side of his mouth he opposes construction of a hotel which will be "on the tax rolls" and produce an estimated $15,000 a year in city property taxes as well as $70,000 annually in room tax and approximately $25,000 in sales tax.

He will have a tough time explaining to the construction trades and labor unions his stand on that hotel. It is estimated that it will take almost a year to construct, thereby employing many people. After construction, it is estimated the Inn will employ upwards of 200 people from hotel manager down to groundskeeper. Here again, Lawson speaks with forked tongue.

During the rcqial unrest a few years ago, and during the time Lawson was Vice President of Monterey Chapter of the NAACP, he made a public statement, which was later publicized in the Monterey Herald, that if the city fathers didn't provide jobs for the youth, they would burn the town down.

Well anyway, this writer reminded the council that a few years ago the city council placed a "straw vote" on the ballot, whether or not to zone Laguna Grande "light industry." (It was contemplated to fill in the lake).

The people voted 2-1 for light industry. We predict that if a similar straw vote concerning whether or not the hotel should be constructed, it would receive overwhelming support.

As we predicted, Adeline Di Lorenzo received her "special privilege" at the Council meeting last Thursday night when the City Council granted her application for re-zoning on certain property on Ord Grove Avenue to allow 12 apartment units instead of the 7 the present zoning allows.

We will have to admit that Mrs. Di Lorenzo has a way with certain powerful people. She recently erected some 44 units on Trinity; had property rezoned on Circle Avenue and erected 14 Unites there over the objections of the Planning Commission and city staff, as well as vehement objections from the residents in the surrounding area. Being in the real estate business apparently has its advantages.

She told this writer some few years ago during a private conversation that she didn't make over half a million dollars in Seaside "by being stupid." Amen.

Then after granting her the rezoning, the mayor brought up the point whether or not any members of the council have any obligation to Mrs. Di Lorenzo, or whether or not any of them had transacted any business with her. He himself admitted that he purchased a home from her in 1955, but that was the extend of his association with her. Councilman Ross admitted that he had received campaign contributions from her on several occasions, but he assured that audience that had no bearing on his vote. The City Attorney stated that in his opinion there was no legal conflict. Councilman Cota didn't divulge much of anything, except that he was involved in a lawsuit against her (as a member of the Redevelopment Agency). Councilman Lawson, the third vote in her favor said nothing, (the vote was 3-2) but any association he may have had was revealed in our guest editorial of last week when we stated that Oscar Lawson's campaign manager in the last city election was James "Pat" Patterson, who was connected with Mrs. Di Lorenzo in a Seaside publication a few years ago.

Filipino-American Club To Break Ground For Community Center

The Filipino-American Community Club of Monterey Peninsula is scheduled for a Ground Breking at Radon Place, Marina, California on August 3 at 9:00 a.m. For years the Filipino-American Club has not taken any forceful approach to build a cultural center for Filipinos in the Peninsula. It is one of the most ambitious projects of the Club since its inception. Mr. Alfeo Antang, the chief architect of the idea sees it through no matter what it takes. It is his boldness that will determine the center's success.

This project will be a major boon, benefit and blessing to the city of Marina. The center will feature social activities and will allow the community to use the facility for any occasion and purposes.

The center will provide an example to others about aggressiveness. Funding for the center involves a combination of plans including contribution from the general membership and friends. The club is now actively seeking help from the members of increase their shares in order that they can reduce the loan borrowed from the Monterey Savings and Loan Association.

The interest and active involvement of all the members will reduce the financial burden of the Club if the Bank is paid for in cash. This will avoid foreclosure from the Bank and the interest will o the members.

CLOSE PLAY—Myron Anderson, Seaside National Allstar third-baseman, misses tag as Carmel Valley Allstar catcher Jodie Moore slides into third in Saturday's Monterey Peninsula Area tournament in Carmel. Carmel Valley defeated Seaside National's 8-2.

Area Administrator,
Little League Baseball

On Thursday, July 18, the Seaside-Del Rey Oaks American Little League Allstars were defeated by the Carmel Allstars in the first game of the Monterey Peninsula Area Little League tournament. Reggie Reest was tagged with the loss, even though he pitched only one and a third innings. Seaside-Del Rey Oaks American Allstars slammed eight hits in the losing effort, scoring seven runs. Dana Messick belted a home run, and Joe Russell hit a grand slam, but both were in the bottom of the sixth inning, and the help came too late for the Seaside nine as Carmel had scored five runs in the second and nine in the fifth to insure their win.

Saturday, July 20, the Carmel Valley Allstars took an early lead in their game with the Seaside National Allstars, and the Nationals were able to score only two runs (by Lloyd Humes and Myron Anderson) as the Carmel Valley pitcher, Buzz Fulton, struck out twelve and allowed only three hits. Simon Oldden, Lloyd Humes, and John Moore all singled for Seaside National.

THE PERFECT HOST

Rose table wines are extremely adaptable to any food or occasion. An ideal companion for the ham and proven features in this week's ad would be Sebastiani Mountain Vin Rose. This is a medium dry wine with a trace of sweetness. Like a white wine, a three hour chilling period is recommended. The superb growing area of the Napa, Sonoma, and Mendocino counties are the only source of grapes for Sebastiani wine.

Pacific Telephone's

Operators

receive many requests for numbers
outside the area covered by your local directory and for new listings. These are necessary and proper requests.

But every day we also receive over a million calls for numbers that are already listed in the book.

In a single year, the Operator expense for handling those unnecessary calls comes to more than $55,000,000.

Who pays the cost of those needless calls?

Well, in an immediate sense, the Phone Company does. But as a public utility, our operating costs ultimately affect the rates that you, the customer, must pay.

So, if you care about the cost of your service, keep the book near your phone, and use it whenever you can; and make a list of the numbers you call often, or may need in a hurry, and keep that handy too.

Of course, when you can't find the information you need,
we're always here to help.

IF YOU CARE ABOUT COST, USE THE BOOK.

MIFS To Raise Tuition

Dr. Fulton Freeman, President of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, announced the decision of the Institute's Board of Trustees to increase the annual tuition by about 8 percent.

Freeman made the announcement following the Board of Trustees' meeting which was held on Saturday, July 13. The proposed increase will become effective in September when the students register for the Fall Semester. Students will be charged $1,025 rather than the previous $950. This does not include registration and student body fees.

Although many private schools throughout the country have found it necessary to raise tuition rates every year in order to meet increasingly higher operational costs, this is the first tuition increment MIFS has instituted in two years. The Institute's Trustees maintain that despite the acute rise of the cost of living, which would justify the need for additional monies, MIFS should be able to meet its expenses without causing undue financial hardships for its students.

First, examine the ad to see what furniture, or how many yards of carpet are being offered. Three rooms of furniture may only include and inexpensive dinette table and four chairs, and inexpensive and small sofa and coffee table, and a headboard and dresser, or it may include, but rarely does, all the furniture you need.

California law does not allow the seller to show pictures of more furniture than he offers at an advertised price unless he clearly and conspicuously states in the ad the furniture that is not included. This law is sometimes violated.

Contact the office of the Attorney General if you see such a violation.

As for carpeting, such ads undoubtedly tell you the maximum yards allowed. Measure your room, add 5-10 percent for waste and see if their three rooms match your needs.

Remember that the companies advertising rooms of furniture and carpets usually advertise their cheapest products and will try to sell you their more expensive products when you enter the store.

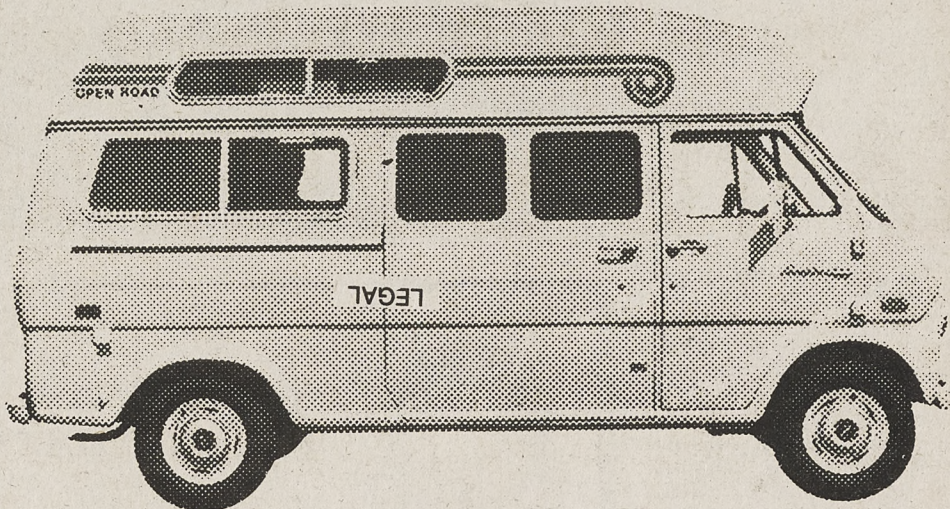

Most used cars are sold "as is," with no guarantee at all, or with a short guarantee, or a guarantee with limited meaning, according to this week's consumer hint from the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Before buying a used car, have it checked first by a competent mechanic. The cost for such a service is usually quite small. Examine the car yourself, and look for signs of wear and age or accidents. (Look for doors that do not fit properly, rust and dampness under floor mats, painted areas along body sides, oily "scum" in the radiator area, tire wear, unusual noises, slow pickup.
